ARCHBOLD SUFFERS FULL PENALTY

Senate Strips Him of Judicial Robes and Disqualifies Him From Holding Office

JUDGE FOUND GUILTY ON FIVE OF 13 COUNTS

Third Man to be Convicted by Impeachment Proceedings Since Government Was Established—Judge Declares He Has Done No Wrong and Nobody's Vote Can Make It Otherwise—Has Served 29 Years on the Bench.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Robert W. Archbold, of Scranton, Pa., for 29 years an occupant of judicial positions upon the Pennsylvania state bench, the federal district bench and the United States commerce court, was today adjudged guilty by the United States senate of "high crimes and misdemeanors"; was stripped of his office, and forever disqualified from holding positions of public honor or public trust.

Charges Made Last Summer.
The conviction and judgment came as the conclusion of the impeachment trial that has been pending in the senate since last summer on charges that Judge Archbold had been guilty of misconduct in the exercise of his judicial power to further the private interests of himself and his friends, in the acquisition of coal land properties in Pennsylvania.

Guilty on Five Counts.
Upon five of the thirteen separate charges brought against him by the house of representatives, Judge Archbold was found guilty. Upon the other eight the senate voted him not guilty, the majority being in each case against him, but failing of the two-thirds majority necessary for conviction. Any one of the five verdicts of guilty was sufficient to bring about the punishment imposed upon him.

68 to 5 on First Charge.
The end of the long fought struggle in the senate to convict Judge Archbold came yesterday afternoon when the vote was taken on the first article of impeachment. With gallery doors locked to prevent the movement of the crowd, an accustomed hush prevailing throughout the chamber, senators rose in their places as their names were called and pronounced their vote. The vote on the first charge was 68 to 5 in favor of conviction. Judge Archbold had been indicted on five charges, and the first charge was that he had accepted a bribe of $500,000 from the Katydild coal company at Scranton, resulting in his conviction, by a vote of 68 to 5.

Protest His Innocence.
In a little committee room next the gallery door, behind a guarded door, Judge Archbold, his wife and son, fought a long and bitter battle with the senate, protesting his innocence and his loyalty to the United States. The first vote of conviction was carried to him by his son from the gallery. After the vote was taken, Judge Archbold, his wife and son, left the capitol, to go at once to the family home at Scranton. "I have always known that I have done no wrong, and the vote of no one makes it otherwise," was the only comment upon the verdict.

Full Penalty Imposed.
Sentence was imposed by Senator Bacon of Georgia, the presiding officer, after the senate had, by a vote of 39 to 35, upheld the recommendation of Senator O'Gorman of New York, authorizing the full penalty provided by the constitution.

Ten Cases of Impeachment.
The sentence of the senate became operative at once, and directions were given that the president and house of representatives be notified of the verdict and the punishment imposed. Of the ten men who have been impeached before the senate since the organization of the government, Judge Archbold is the third to be convicted and the only one convicted who appeared in person to defend himself against the charges brought by the house of representatives.

The Rollcall.
Voting on the charges began as soon as the impeachment committee had been reorganized at one o'clock. On each of the articles Senator Bacon, after the secretary had read the charge to the senate, put the question and the rollcall was taken. "Senators, how say you, is the respondent, Robert D. Archbold, guilty or not guilty as charged in this article?" As the roll call proceeded, replies of "guilty" came from all parts of the chamber. Each senator, under the rule, rose in his place and voted. Their votes to make their replies audible to the secretary. Robert W. Archbold, Jr., who sat with his father's counsel on the floor, was not permitted to vote. He was, however, permitted to be present and to hear the proceedings.

First Charge.
The first article charged that Judge Archbold had come to officials of the Erie railroad, while that road had a suit pending in the commerce court, and had corruptly influenced them to agree to give him a favorable opinion on the Katydild coal mine, owned in part by the Erie's subsidiary company, the Hillside Coal and Iron company. Senators Brandegee and McLean voted "guilty."

Second and Third Charges.
The second charge was not sustained against Judge Archbold, 46 to 25, being a vote of 25 to 21 in favor of conviction. On the third charge, involving the use of influence with the Erie Valley railroad to force it to relinquish a lease on "packer No. 2" a coal property which Judge Archbold wanted to secure, the accused jurist was convicted by a vote of 60 to 11. Senators Brandegee, Clark of Wyoming, Crane, Smoot, Stephenson and Thornton, who had voted "guilty" on the first article, voted "not guilty" on this charge.

Fourth Charge.
Another verdict of "guilty" came on the fourth charge that Judge Archbold had wrongfully written to John Bruce, an attorney for the Louisville and Nashville railroad, to secure his assistance in preparing a decision in a case then before the commerce court. The vote on this charge was 52 to 20. Additional senators who voted "not guilty" on this charge.

RAILROAD CLERKS STILL DISSATISFIED
New Haven Company Issues Statement Regarding Concessions.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 13.—The New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company tonight issued the following statement relative to the differences between the clerks and the road:
"In the agreement between the clerks of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company and the management each man was to receive an increase of fifteen cents per day, at holidays, and vacations during the summer season without loss of time, provided this could be granted without additional expense to the company. It is understood that the clerks, in accordance with their seniority, depending upon fitness and ability, were to be paid a minimum of $2.00 per day to all men performing all clerical work and $3.00 per day to all men performing the granting of equal consideration to clerks for positions as agents, chief clerks, cashiers, foremen, etc."

WILL ATTEMPT TO REVISE THE RULES
Democrats Will Resume Their Efforts at Hartford Today.

Hartford, Conn., Jan. 13.—A revision of the joint rules which the republican house passed last week will be proposed by the democratic majority in the senate tomorrow, according to the outlook tonight. The democrats are expected to attempt to pass an amendment to the rules inserting therein a clause which will provide for a stipulated number of democrats to be appointed from the house. Senator McLean, of New York, is expected to lead the fight for the democrats to be appointed from the house. The democrats have command of the situation. It is thought that the republicans will try to prevent the amendment going through by using various parliamentary tactics. In the house the rule of the previous question is in effect, and the democrats, but as there is no such rule in the senate, the democrats anticipate a contest of some length is ahead. It is understood that Speaker Webster will not announce the house committee until the matter of the rules amendment is decided. The democrats will be at a complete standstill. Some hope of a solution of the matters will be at a complete standstill. Some hope of a solution of the matters will be at a complete standstill.

HOMELESS FAMILIES OCCUPY SCHOOLHOUSES.
Worst of Flood of Ohio River Now Believed to Be Over.

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 13.—After doing thousands of dollars' worth of damage, as well as causing about three thousand families to abandon their homes, at least temporarily, the flood of the Ohio river at this point has subsided to a point where it is believed that the present rates of the river will not be a serious menace to the city. The flood has been practically prohibitive. Mr. Cheney agreed that some articles are very nearly prohibitive. "The cheapest velvets and plushes," insisted Mr. Palmer, "do not come in at all." "Not to any large extent," replied the witness.

Lower Tariff On Cheap Silk

INDICATED AS PART OF DEMOCRATIC PROGRAM.

TESTIMONY BY CHENEY

South Manchester Manufacturer Declares to Committee That Workmen Reap All Benefit of the Tariff.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Free rough and dressed lumber, hewn and squared timber, shingles, laths and fence posts, a portion of approximately the present tariff on the higher grades of silks and reductions in the cheaper silks used by the common people, and a penalizing drastic bar to shut out "dynamited" silks, were indicated today as parts of the expected democratic revision programme.

Free Meats May Be Included.
The house committee on ways and means devoted the day to hearings on the tariff law, and when the testimony and examinations were closed the committee will frame to submit to the extra session of congress.

Women Will Buy, Regardless of Price.
The burden of testimony on the wooden schedule was a plea for the preservation of the present tariff rates. Silk, involving immense interests, present a complexity of technicalities far greater than in any of the other classes. During the past session, according to Horace B. Cheney of South Manchester, Conn., as spokesman for the silk manufacturers of the country, women will buy regardless of price. "Silks are a luxury," says Underwood.

"Women always want something that looks fancy," said C. A. Stirell of New York, while joining with Samuel Kridel, another importer, in protest against the tariff on velvets, ribbons and other things. "Silks are a luxury, that is most silks," commented Chairman Underwood of the committee.

F. E. Kip of Bridgeport testified that he knew there was a syndicate of velvet manufacturers in France that imposed contracts binding buyers from them for a three year period and allowing rebates of 10 per cent. denied where a buyer deals with anyone outside of the syndicate, and that this combination stretched out as high as possible 50 per cent. of the silk velvet manufacturers of France, Germany and England.

Duty Goes to Workmen.
Representative Palmer of Pennsylvania, democrat, made a persistent examination of Witness Cheney, designed to bring out that the silk manufacturers were not to be as high as possible the rates of the cheaper silks that appeal to the mechanic and workman classes, offered for the sale of the cheaper silks did not actually go to the manufacturer.

"No," replied Mr. Cheney. "It goes to the workman. For every dollar you might get by reducing the tariff you would take two dollars away from the workmen through decreased sales."

High Duty on Cheap Silks.
Mr. Cheney agreed that the committee should rewrite the silk schedule. It would be practicable to make some changes to equalize points of comparison. He said that the committee should not be so high as possible the rates of the cheaper silks that appeal to the mechanic and workman classes, offered for the sale of the cheaper silks did not actually go to the manufacturer.

Warning Given by the Powers

RESUMPTION OF WAR WILL BE DISAPPROVED

MODERATION ADVISED

Ambassadors Have Interviews With Heads of Bulgarian and Turkish Delegations in Effort to Bring Peace.

London, Jan. 13.—Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, and the ambassadors of the powers, are making valiant efforts to bring about a settlement between Turkey and the Balkan allies in the direction of peace. They have had additional interviews with Dr. Danoff and Rehad Pasha, heads of the Bulgarian and Turkish delegations respectively, advising moderation on both sides and warning that either side if through obstinacy it should plunge Europe into war again, would incur a heavy weight of disapproval.

It is up to Constantinople.
The minister of the ambassadors today was the lengthiest yet held. They discussed the note to be presented to the porte passage by passage, aiming to reach a possible agreement likely to be raised by the Turks. The general impression among the plenipotentiaries is that the definite decision on war or peace must come from Constantinople. Whatever concessions and compromises the Balkan league may make the allies will never consent to the renunciation of Adrianople, which the Turks make the sine qua non of peace.

Strong Faith in Grand Vizier.
Much is hoped from Kiamil Pasha, the grand vizier, a man of great ability and extraordinary influence. He is perhaps the most powerful among the Ottoman government. He has succeeded in restoring the good relations between Turkey and the triple entente, and thus far has been able to prevent the powers from taking an active Turkish attitude.

Making Use of Their Relations.
While progress towards peace is at a standstill here, the Balkan delegations are working actively among their relatives and friends on the thrones of Europe to influence the powers in favor of the claims of their countries. As the moment for a decision approaches their efforts become more strenuous. It is known that they have sent special envoys to some of the capitals to support the work of their regular diplomats.

Greeks Still Fighting.
The Greeks, unhampered by the armistice which binds the other allies, are continuing the fighting in Epirus where even today sharp encounters took place with the Turks.

Electors Cast Their Ballots

WILSON AND MARSHALL FORMALLY ELECTED

EIGHT CAB FOR TAFT

Electors of Two States Favor Murray Butler For Vice President—Wilson to New Jersey Electors.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Electors in 48 states met today and formally elected Woodrow Wilson to the presidency and Thomas R. Marshall to the vice presidency of the United States.

Returns Mailed.
Returns prepared by the electors chosen at the polls last November are now on their way by mail to Washington to the president-elect and the senate. Another set of these returns will be brought in person by an elector chosen from each state, to be canvassed Feb. 12 in joint session of the senate and the house, when Governor Wilson will formally be proclaimed president of the country.

Butler for Vice President.
In two of the states, Utah and Vermont, four votes each were cast for President Taft for president and Nicholas Murray Butler for vice president, the latter having been named by the republican national committee to succeed the late James S. Sherman on the republican ticket.

A PROGRESSIVE IMPULSE.
Governor Wilson So Interprets His Election to Presidency.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 13.—Governor Wilson, who while the majority of the states in the union today officially cast their electoral votes for the president-elect, proclaimed his own interpretation of his election as the distinct expression of the progressive impulse of the country.

"I shall not be acting as a partisan when I pick out progressives, and only progressives," he said. "The governor said in analyzing the spirit that he said had produced his election."

Governor Wilson predicted no division of the progressive banner between the party, but foresaw solidarity. "These democrats," he said, "who hitherto have been slow to align themselves with the progressive banner of the party are everywhere yielding. The business men of the country are, and broader view of their duties to the people."

The governor spoke at a luncheon given for him by the republican state committee just before the official ballot was cast.

"I feel myself a citizen of the world," he said. "I have to fight just for the fun of it. Now that is not in the least my temperament. I am really a very tame, unambitious man. I have no desire in my blood the splendid satisfaction of fighting for something, something as big as myself, and trying for the time being to make a name as big as the thing I am fighting for. That is a solid satisfaction."
